1.0 Introduction

Starbucks Supplier Guidance documents were prepared in accordance with Starbucks business standards, policies and practices. The information provided in this Global Reference document is intended to provide guidance to both current and potential Suppliers by outlining important information needed to conduct day to day business.

Suppliers have 24/7 access to the information at www.starbucks.com/business/suppliers. Suppliers of Starbucks are expected to adhere to the information provided and are responsible for staying informed and up to date as periodic changes are made to the information. Procedural and operational updates are effective 30 days after they are published.

2.1 Acronyms and Definitions

This section contains the terminology included in this Supplier Guidebook. Additional definitions can be found in the Starbucks Standard Terms and Conditions of Purchase; also available on www.starbucks.com/business/suppliers.

Authorized Representative – A Starbucks representative who is authorized to commit company funds on behalf of Starbucks and/or authorized to correspond with or request information from Suppliers. The Authorized Representative is responsible for all Supplier selections, negotiation, monitoring, costs, schedules, specifications and purchase documents. The Authorized Representative may instruct the Supplier to work directly other Starbucks partners on day-to-day business transactions or in developing new products, but the Authorized Representative remains the key contact for all final specifications, costs, schedules and agreements.

Bill of Lading (BOL) – A document signed by a carrier (a transporter of goods) or the carrier’s representative and issued to a consignor (the shipper of goods) that evidences the receipt of goods for shipment to a consignee (specified destination and person).

Blanket Purchase Agreement (BPA) – An agreement (not a contract to buy) used to establish or affirm specific terms and pricing for a specific set of items. Establishes the parameters used to create BPA releases (commitments to buy).

Case – As used in this document, case includes trays, totes and any other outer-most container holding product for shipment.

Co-Manufacturer – A company with specific competencies or capabilities that collaborates with others in order to create a common final product.

Consolidated Distribution Center (CDC) – A distribution center operated by a third-party vendor that warehouses, sorts and delivers a combination of products that would traditionally be delivered to a store through different vendors. Refer to the Reference Tables below for a complete list of North America CDCs.

Country of Origin (COO) – For Starbucks purposes, the term “Country of Origin” is defined as the specific country(s) in which the item is manufactured, and as defined by the country of import. Country of Origin is not defined as the country from which the item was shipped, although the two may be the same.

Each – “Each” refers to an individual unit of product.

EMEA – Europe, Middle East, Africa.

GFSI – Global Food Safety Initiative.

GMA – Grocery Manufacturer Association.

Inner Pack – Inner Pack describes any packaging that contains more than one individual unit within a case.

International Standards for Phytosanitary Measures No. 15 (ISPM 15) - An International Phytosanitary Measure developed by the International Plant Protection Convention (IPPC) that requires all wood packaging materials thicker than 6mm (i.e. pallets, crates) to be debarked, then heat treated or fumigated with methyl bromide to prevent the spread of insects and disease that could negatively impact plants and ecosystems when products are shipped between countries. Wooden packaging material in compliance with ISPM 15 is stamped with a “wheat stamp” that contains codes to indicate the country code, the pallet manufacturer, the treatment company and type of treatment (heat or fumigated).

ISPM 15 – See International Standards for Phytosanitary Measures No. 15.

Item Data Sheet (IDS) – This form is required to be completed by the Supplier in order to provide specific data points and information about items. The IDS provides the necessary information and specifications in order to set up an item in Starbucks systems.

Lot – A number that uniquely describes a particular batch or manufacturing run. Each lot number used can correspond to only one expiration date.

Manufacturing Site Identification (MID) – The MID is an alphanumeric code generated by the Starbucks system that uniquely identifies Supplier or third party sites used to manufacture products sold to Starbucks.

Order – The request and its unique identification number that describes a specific shipment of goods. An Order may be a purchase order, blanket purchase agreement, blanket purchase order, release against a blanket purchase agreement, job order, work order, statement of work or other mechanism for ordering products or services.

Partner – A Starbucks employee.

PO – Purchase Order (See “Purchase Order”).

Purchase Order (PO) – (See Order”).

Regional Distribution Center (RDC) – One of a network of warehouses (scattered regionally) operated for a single company where merchandise is consolidated prior to delivery to its stores within a region (see the Reference Tables below for a complete list of RDCs).

Starbucks uses many types of documents to authorize the purchase of goods and services. The most common documents include (not in order of precedence):

1. Contracts/Agreements – A formal contract or agreement signed by both Starbucks and the Supplier may be put into place for services or products. These will be negotiated between the Authorized Representative and the Supplier prior to commencement of any work.
2. Blanket Purchase Agreements / Releases –A blanket purchase agreement (BPA) is not a commitment to purchase, but rather an agreement between the parties to the terms under which Starbucks may purchase products during a specific timeframe and for a specific dollar amount. Once in place, the BPA enables a release to be executed, authorizing either the purchase of product or commencement of work to begin. Each release issued decreases the total available on the BPA by the amount of the release.
3. Standard Purchase Orders – Purchase orders (PO) are written to cover specific projects, products or shipments. Purchase orders may be issued in lieu of or in addition to another form of contract or agreement.
4. Purchasing Cards – Starbucks may use a purchasing card for the purchase of non- inventory products and services. To ensure payment, Suppliers shall pre-approve all transactions prior to shipment of goods or commencement of services.
5. Work Orders – Generated from store development for repairs and maintenance.
6. Order Advice – The suggested order management document delivered to store product distributors.
